

The United Presbyterian Church of Blairsville, PA

FEBRUARY 2017

One of the strengths of congregations in our faith tradition is that we are connectional – relational. Paul offers us the image of the church as being like a human body in that all the parts are different, yet work together for the common good. In essence, we need each other to become who God calls us to be. Being in relationship brings with it a level of accountability to each other as a family of faith. Each year, every Presbyterian congregation submits an annual report detailing statistical information about its life in the previous year. While such data excites “bean counters,” it does not give us an accurate picture of who we are as congregations. In 1908, congregations were asked to report on their life together, not merely by recounting a bunch of numbers, but rather by describing their spiritual health in something called “A Narrative on the State of Religion.” The questions answered and the issues addressed are just as relevant today as they were over a century ago.

How many who consider themselves members of the church attend worship on the Lord’s Day?

What proportion of families observe daily worship, prayer, Bible reading in the home?

How do families of the congregation spend their time on the Lord’s Day? How is the Sabbath honored?

How are children taught scripture and trained in the catechisms at home and in Sabbath School?

How faithful are church members in honoring the Lord with their substance?

Has there been any special manifestation of the Holy Spirit’s power in your church, either by conversions or by increased activity in church work?

To what extent does worldly conformity exist in your church?

What evangelistic work is done by your church outside of its bounds?

What efforts are made by your session to secure recruits to the gospel ministry?

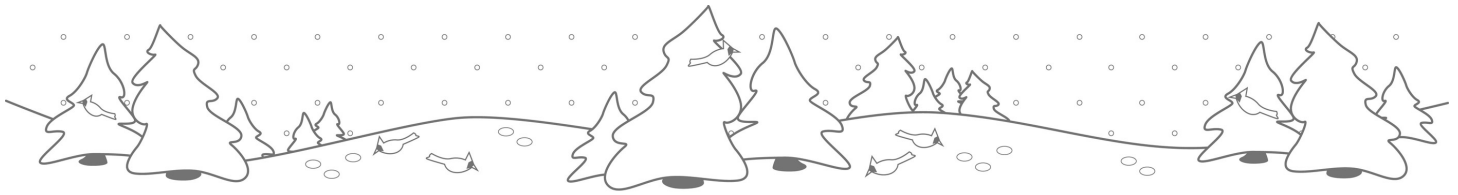

These questions call us to assess our faithfulness as a congregation, but so too they call us to account for our personal investment in the life of the church. Throughout society there are many who are content to do only enough to get by. Their vision extends only as far as their needs are met. Sadly I have heard such an attitude expressed in the church. “All I care about is that this church stays open long enough for me to be buried in it, after that I don’t care what happens to it.” Perhaps that is part of the reason some churches are struggling – or even more that is why as a society we are struggling.

I, like you, was raised to do a job as well as I could possibly do it – to leave something better than I found it. As a congregation, we are blessed to build on the spiritual foundation of those who have come before us – to enjoy the fruit of their faithfulness. Having such a rich heritage calls us to be to the coming generations the fullness of who Christ is in us. Are we providing the Spiritual resources the coming generations will need? Will we be to them as those who came before us? Is the Holy Spirit’s power manifested in your life? Is the grace of Christ flowing through you? Are we doing the best we can to further the good news of the gospel? Will those who follow us count our witness as a blessing?

Pray for and encourage me as I pray and seek to encourage you. We have been entrusted with this ministry and together we commit ourselves to God’s Kingdom. May we become a blessing as we have been blessed.....

In Christ’s love,

Pastor Jim

Souper Bowl Offering

Since 1990, young people have been leading the charge and inspiring others to collect dollars and food around the time of the BIG Game. The money and food collected then is given, 100%, to a local charity. More than $110 million has been collected, changing the nation's largest weekend of football into the largest weekend of caring. We will receive our Souper Bowl of Caring Offering Sunday, February 5th during morning worship. One hundred percent of these gifts will be sent to the ICCAP Food Bank. Please prayerfully consider your gift.

2017 Per Capita Update

Per Capita, literally "per head", is the amount requested from each member to cover the administrative expenses of the General Assembly, Synod and Presbytery. For 2017, that amount is $29.58 per member on the active roll. That breaks down to: General Assembly—$7.50, Synod—$2.50, and Presbytery—$19.78. The Session has taken action to withhold all per capita to General Assembly with the exception of contributions given with specific designation to it. Per Capita sent to support Synod and Presbytery is NOT used to support the General Assembly. For this reason, the session sees that those funds are paid unless you request that your share not be. Your box of offering envelopes included a letter explaining your options with regards to your per capita. If you have questions or need a copy of the letter, please contact the church office or see Pastor Monroe. We want to honor your intentions for your gifts to the work of the church.

Suggested activities are associated with preparing our hearts, souls and minds to reflect on the suffering, death and resurrection of Christ and his mission for us. Devotionals will be available for you to pick up at the back of the sanctuary February 26th.

Space is available for hundreds of banners, each showcasing an individual's photograph, branch of service, and era of service for a veteran or active duty service member. Each banner will have a sponsor to cover the $150.00 cost. Most sponsorships are likely to come from individuals or families. A maintenance fund is being established to cover replacement costs. The Snow that Never Drifts

By Emily Dickinson

The Snow that never drifts —
The transient, fragrant snow
That comes a single time a Year
Is softly driving now —

So thorough in the Tree
At night beneath the star
That it was February's Foot
Experience would sweat —

Like Winter as a Face
We stern and former knew
Repaired of all but Loneliness
By Nature's Alibit —

Were every storm so spice
The Value could not be —
We buy with contrast — Pang is good
As near as memory —

Mission Moment

Joy! 'I've never received anything like this'

The letters with an individual check of $50 from Stewartsville Presbyterian Church, made out to every teaching elder in Newton Presbytery, came in the mail in May 2016, near the end of the church calendar year.

Yet six months later, the pastors who received the letters, and those who made the decision to give them, are still talking about them in ways that get at the heart of the gift of giving.

"In the letter we made sure to say that the $50 was for the pastors to spend on themselves," says the Rev. Stephen Choi. "It was not a pay-it-forward gift. It was intended to bless the person receiving it."

After mailing the letters and checks to 68 pastors and chaplains—the combined total of the gift was $3,400—Choi says he and the congregation really didn't think about it much and moved on to the next demands of ministry. They knew that some churches and pastors were struggling, but they never anticipated the responses they got.

In the next two to three weeks, notes and cards from those receiving the gifts poured into the church's mailbox: messages expressing gratitude, speaking of how the letter and the check came when they were having a bad week or an anniversary of some sort.

One pastor spoke about how over Memorial Day weekend he was able to splurge. Instead of the usual hot dogs and hamburgers, he bought steaks for the family.

"Receiving those notes and cards was such a joy for me—and for our congregation," says Choi. "I found myself waiting eagerly for the mail to arrive every day, so that I could open up more testimonies of how in some small way the Holy Spirit used us to bless teaching elders, pastors in our presbytery."

One letter in particular made a powerful impression on Choi and the Stewartsville congregation. It came from Rev. Dr. Ed Halldorson at the Presbyterian Church of Chatham Township. He's been in ministry for more than 40 years. "Since 1974," is how he began his three-page, handwritten letter. "I've never received a gift quite like this."

He wrote that he found the gift "truly remarkable" because it wasn't a "church to church" gift but "a church to every single pastor gift in the presbytery." He was deeply touched to have his ministry "affirmed in this way."

Halldorson spent his $50 on a video program on biblical archeology for a bible class he teaches. He even offered to co-teach it at Stewartsville as an expression of his thanks.

"Certainly this act as a congregation has strengthened our connections with the ministers and teaching elders in Newton Presbytery," says Choi. "It's opened a door for us to care a little bit more, to have a more real relationship with them."

"I'm truly grateful," adds Halldorson. "They reminded me of how happy and blessed I am to be a teaching elder in the Presbyterian Church."
